

AAAJ Literature and Insights Am I different?

918

After years in the accounting profession,
and encountering critical research in academia,
something within me began to feel uneasy.

The pathway into critical inquiry
made me see the world through different eyes.
It ignited a fire of reflection
I never knew I carried.

Yet all of this left me feeling like a stranger within.
Then, I asked myself:
Am I different? Am I wrong?

Walking in a different direction is never easy.
But along the way,
I didn't find the end,
but a few similar souls in the course of action.

And then I understood:
I am not different!
I only needed to find my academic tribe.

Herberty Cerqueira Lima

School of Economics, Business, Accounting and Actuarial Science, University of São Paulo, São Paulo, Brazil

